Public invited to Department of Environmental Quality open house

BISMARCK, N.D. – Looking to learn more about the new North Dakota Department of Environmental Quality and the important work it does to safeguard the state’s air, land and water resources?

Plan now to join us at a free open house on Friday, May 31, 2019, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Environmental Training Center, 2639 East Main Ave, Bismarck.

At this event, you can:

- Visit with environmental scientists, engineers and chemists about the work they do.
- View the wide range of equipment used to monitor and protect North Dakota’s environment.
- Sign up for a tour of the Chemistry Laboratory. (Note: Tour participants must wear closed-toe shoes and clothing covering the legs such as long pants. Safety glasses will be provided.)
- Enjoy free refreshments.

Gather your friends and family and come discover the new North Dakota Department of Environmental Quality!
